

Nixon Pushes Single Agency on Pollution

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration, attempting to quell criticism of its proposed environmental super-agency, says coordinating all federal pollution-fighting efforts under one roof will help eliminate vested interests of existing cabinet-level departments.

President Nixon's decision to create a new Environmental Protection Agency—EPA—was based in part "on the need to avoid the institutional biases of existing agencies," Dwight A. Link, assistant director of the Office of Management and Budget, said Wednesday.

Link's testimony to a House subcommittee appeared to be a reply to congressional backers of Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel's hope to concentrate government pollution-fighting activities in his department.

Link told a House government operations subcommittee studying the plan that existing agencies have their own missions which affect their views of environmental matters.

"To vest all the EPA programs in one of those departments is apt to result in a particular slant to those activities and questions as to its objectivity in dealing with matters affecting and controlling other departments," Link said.

The government is not downgrading antipollution efforts by placing them in a non-Cabinet level agency, he added.

"At present, these programs are placed in such a way that various levels of supervisors exist between them and the Cabinet members, and they must compete for attention with a host of other important departmental activities," Link said.

Nixon's reorganization plan, signed two weeks ago, pulls most of the antipollution enforcement efforts into the EPA from major government departments. In addition, Nixon created a National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration dealing primarily with environmental research.

John Wayne May Pay Visit to Arkansas, After Name-Calling

Arkansas State Parks, Recreation and Travel Commission

Movie Star John Wayne may visit Arkansas in the near future "to enjoy the mountains, lakes, beautiful scenery and the friendliest people on earth," it was announced today by Ray G. Cooper, executive director of the Parks-Recreation and Travel Commission.

Earlier this month, Cooper invited Wayne to visit the state as the result of a statement about Arkansas, attributed to the star during a Chicago Tribune interview.

In the interview, Wayne was quoted as saying: "Singer Glen Campbell (his co-star in 'True Grit'), is the only thing from Arkansas I like except for the Governor. Senator J. William Fulbright is the most miserable s.o.b. I have ever met in my whole life. He's a fraternity brother of mine (Sigma Chi), but 60 days to void the plan, it will become effective."

Rep. John A. Blatnik, D-Minn., subcommittee chairman, said he expects a resolution to set aside the proposal to be introduced.

Democrats on the panel labeled the plan lopsided and too limited to do the job.

Blatnik told Russell Train, Nixon's chief adviser on the environment, the plan leaves a number of environment-related functions spread out in several agencies.

Train said the plan is not the last word but "it's a start and a very important start."

"It is a start but a lopsided start," Blatnik said, noting that most of the $1.4 billion for the agency will go for fighting water pollution.

Other Democratic members cited aircraft noise as a problem not brought under the EPA, it is a responsibility of the Federal Aviation Administration.

Train said setting noise standards is in an early stage of development in the federal government, prompting the decision to leave it within FAA for the present.

he is an educated idiot."

As a result of the statement, Cooper sent a telegram to Wayne inviting him to visit Arkansas. The telegram read: "While in full agreement of your admiration for Glen Campbell and Governor Rockefeller, we believe that there is even more in Arkansas for you to like: mountains, lakes, beautiful scenery and the friendliest people in the world. We would be delighted to show you all of this, at your convenience, as our guest, and we will even take you to Fort Smith where a one-eyed gentleman by the name of 'Rooster' Cogburn used to hang out."

In a letter to Cooper, dated July 17, Wayne said: "I wish to thank you for your telegram and invitation. Apparently I did not make myself clear when I spoke of your great state."

"I feel nothing but good will for the many people from your state who have come within my ken, except one. In the case of that one I think I have stated myself quite explicitly."

"I hope that in the near future I may have the time to enjoy the mountains, lakes, beautiful scenery, and the friendly people in the world."

Miami Cab Driver Held for Murder

MIAMI (AP) — A 37-year-old cab driver caught by a police stakeout at International Airport has been accused of murdering two women hostages in a $2,000 robbery.

Milton Niport was seized at midnight Wednesday as he stepped off a plane which police said he had boarded in Los Angeles.

He was charged with the murders of Delores Palacios, 42, and Judy Lamb, 40.

The bodies of the two women were found in a lonely field Monday 10 miles from the scene of the early morning robbery, a Western Union branch in Coral Gables. Both had been shot several times in the head.

Police found the bodies after a third victim, Bruce Reitz, dragged himself 1½ miles to a highway. He had been shot twice in the head.

A sketch of the gunman was made from Reitz' description.

"We canvassed the airport and found an airline employee who recognized the composite sketch and said the man had flown out of the city," said Ralph Page, supervisor for the Dade County Public Safety Department.

"We found someone who thought they recognized the sketch," Page continued. "We checked the man and he had a criminal record. We found out he had flown to Atlanta and that he would probably return to the city. We staked out the airport and waited."

Following the arrest, police said they found a .22-caliber handgun behind an air conditioner in Niport's downtown apartment.

The two dead women and Reitz were all shot with a gun of similar caliber, police said.

Vietnam Arms Feed Crime Wave

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Arms and munitions bound for Vietnam are being stolen in California and sold through an underground market in which narcotics sometimes are used for money, an investigator has told a Senate panel.

"An acid head possessing an unstable explosivis enough to make any law enforcement officer lose sleep at night," Charles A. O'Brien, California's deputy attorney general, told the Senate Investigations subcommittee Wednesday.

"And that's what we have in California right now," he added.

"There's a market for hand grenades and they're stealing the stuff," O'Brien said, referring to recent munitions thefts from U.S. military shipments going through the Port of Oakland and Port Chicago, Calif.

"The general tendency toward blowing things up and burning things down in our society involves an acceptance of violence and destruction which is virtually endemic," O'Brien said, adding all types, colors and classes of people of all political persuasions are involved in the escalating wave of terror bombings.

Another witness, Iowa Atty. Gen. Richard C. Turner, told senators that in his state, where dynamite is easier to purchase than firecrackers, wire-tapping laws are needed to allow successful prosecution of bombers and the recovery of hoards of explosives.

U.S. Gives Up Besieged War Base

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — Heavy North Vietnamese fire forced U.S. troops to abandon a besieged patrol base today in the northwest corner of South Vietnam where 33 Americans have been killed and 165 wounded since July 1, the U.S. Command announced.

One helicopter was shot down during the evacuation.

Informed sources said the paratroopers from the 101st Airborne Division disabled some of their artillery guns and abandoned them before they retreated, but the U.S. Command's announcement made no mention of this.

Only sketchy information was available on the withdrawal from patrol base Ripcord, on a 1,000-foot ridge north of the A Shau valley and 13 miles east of the Laotian border. But the sources said the base was under attack this morning.

It was the first time in nearly nine months, since Nov. 2, that U.S. forces abandoned a patrol base under enemy pressure and destroyed their guns to keep them out of enemy hands.

The base and the patrols working out from it have been under frequent North Vietnamese attack all this month.

The City take steps to provide an approved incinerator or discontinue burning. City Manager Garland Medders and Sanitary Superintendent Jewel May, met with the Pollution Control Commission for a study of approved type incinerators, none of which are in operation in the state of Arkansas. The city manager said that the sanitary department would study an operation by St. Louis County in Missouri which has been checked by the federal pollution authorities and did meet the new federal requirements on air pollution. Any change in the method of disposing of all solid waste removed from the city to the dump ground will be expensive and is certain to cause an increase in the cost of sanitation service.

an amendment to prevent large corporate farms from breaking down their holdings into smaller units to avoid the $55,000 ceiling.

The House twice in recent years voted a $20,000 ceiling, only to have it upset in conferences with the Senate.

Hardin called the measure "a good bill" that will "enhance the economic position of farmers" in the years ahead.

The bill, expected to be taken up by the full House next week, provides voluntary control, a plan for setting aside excess crop land, price support loans and payments for cotton, wheat and feed grains, three of the nation's most abundant and troublesome crops.

It also includes sections dealing with dairy, wool, and Food For Peace and cropland retirement.

Bridal Setup Attracts News Camera

Drivers on Highway 67 were taking a second look as they passed the New Pentecost lawn near the Experiment Station one afternoon last week.

Local photographer Clyde Davis of Shipley Studio was out under the trees making pictures of Susan Turner, bride-elect of Joe Purvis, in her bridal gown. Mrs. Virginia Hosmer of Ladies Specialty Shop and Mrs. Mary Nell Turner were helping with the gown and cameras.

One of the passersby was Ed Mueller, a Chicago-based photographer for the Christian Herald, who was returning from the West Coast where he had been covering several rock festivals.

Mr. Mueller said that after all the filth and crowds he had seen on the coast, he was stunned by the beauty and simplicity of a girl in a long white dress out on the grassy lawn. He made several pictures and promised to send some to Mr. Davis and Miss Turner. Among his other assignments, Mr. Mueller has covered the Billy Graham crusades.

New Freedom for Miss America

By RICHARD L. STERN
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Miss America 1971, unlike her predecessors, will be allowed to give her opinions on marijuana smoking, the Vietnam war and other controversial issues. But sex remains taboo.

In revealing a major departure from pageant tradition, Miss America officials emphasized Wednesday that questions of a "distasteful personal nature" such as, "Do you use the pill?" would remain on the taboo list during the contest here in September.

Albert Marks, chairman of the pageant executive committee, said he had lifted the prohibition against controversial topics because "I took a good look at the whole picture."

"We were always afraid youngsters with no prior background would put a foot in their mouth, but today's youthful society doesn't need over-protection," Marks said, however, that contestants would not be required to give their opinion.

Recently, Katherine Huppe of

Helena, Mont., resigned as Miss Montana, citing restrictions on what she could say and do about politics and other current events.

Miss Huppe, 18, said that after she won the title she had to sign a contract forbidding her to write anything not approved by the sponsoring Billings Jaycees and to campaign for any political candidate or cause.

Marks said a prohibition against support of political candidates and parties would remain.

"The Miss America Pageant is not politically motivated or politically oriented," he said, but added that the lifting of prohibitions on other controversial topics may not have filtered down to state and local pageant levels.

Prohibitions against the contestants socializing during the week-long pageant with any men, including their fathers, will remain, Marks said.

"We don't want to give the public the impression of any wrongdoing here," Marks said.

The bride-elect graduated from Earle High School and Arkansas State University with a major in speech and drama. She was a member of Alpha Gamma Delta and Alpha Psi Omega. She is currently doing graduate work at the University of Arkansas.

Mr. McKee was graduated from Hope High School and Henderson State College, and on August 21 he will receive his masters degree from the U. of A. in dramatic art. In September he will be assistant professor of Speech and drama at Arkansas College, Batesville.

Television and Radio

By JERRY BUCK

AP Television-Radio Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Is it possible to buck the trend toward realism and relevance on television and be successful with a gentle, homespun comedy?

Ken Berry thinks so, and the record of "Mayberry R.F.D." backs him up. The show, in which he stars, finished fourth in last season's national Nielsen ratings.

Sitting in his modest dressing room, a few feet from the set of Emmett's Fixit Shop, Berry observed, "I never liked the ratings until I got into a high-rated show. Now I like them fine."

"Mayberry" is beginning its eleventh year on CBS. The first eight years it was "The Andy Griffith Show."

"Mayberry is about people who don't have much to do and their problems are not terribly important," said Berry. "Nobody goes for big laughs. We've taken jokes out if they don't fit the character."

"I've heard it doesn't relate to the problems of today. If you want to see the problems of today, turn on the news. I think there's room for shows that are pure entertainment."

Ken admits that he is worried that CBS is moving away from its emphasis on shows appealing to people in small towns and rural areas. He also is quick to add that he doesn't think "Mayberry" should be lumped into the same category with "Beverly Hillsbillies" and "Green Acres."

"Those shows are farces and you have to accept that to enjoy it," he said. "But I am worried. I can't understand the thinking."

"There are people who think Mayberry couldn't exist, but it does. CBS executives say there's no such place. They get on a plane in New York and they fly here and never see what's in between."

Perhaps one reason for the show's popularity is that for most viewers the star is the town itself. It is the hometown everyone wishes they had, and certainly nearly everyone knows someone like Goober or Emmett or Howard.

Despite his tenure on "Mayberry" and "F Troop" before that, Berry can go about town unrecognized. "Larry Storch said I could rob a bank and walk away unnoticed," he said. "I've got the most nondescript face in the world. If I go anywhere in this town people are impressed because of Jackie."

His wife, Jackie Joseph, conducts a popular talk show on a Los Angeles television station. He said, "I was having my camper fixed and a little girl said to me, 'you're Jackie Joseph's husband.'"

"I always try to rationalize that it's better to have the privacy," he said.

Cynthia Lowry is on vacation.

BISHOP RETIRES

LONDON (AP) — Bishop Mervyn Charles-Edwards of Worcester will resign his see September 30 to give place to a younger man. He is 68. The bishop was vicar of St. Martin-in-the-Fields, the well-known Anglican church on London's Trafalgar Square, from 1947 to 1956, when he was consecrated Bishop of Worcester. He also served as a chaplain to King George VI and to the present monarch, Queen Elizabeth II. While vicar of St. Martin's he pioneered lunch-hour talks on sex in the church crypt.

Asks Private School Tax Credit

WEST MEMPHIS, Ark. (AP) — W. S. Cheek of West Memphis, a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, said Wednesday that parents of children who attend private or parochial schools should be allowed tax credits on the state income tax.

In a prepared statement, Cheek also said that parents should be given credit on the school tax portion of their personal property tax in relation to the amount spent on the education of the student.

Cheek said the proposal would relieve the parents of "double taxation." He said they were due relief because they helped support public schools, but their children did not attend the schools.

Canton Comes Through With Relief Job

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bruce Dal Canton came through with a key relief job for the Pittsburgh Pirates—as a starter.

"I'd rather be a starter but I know I'll be back in the bullpen," Dal Canton said Wednesday night after working 72-3 innings and getting the victory in the Pirates' 5-3 triumph that boosted to two games their lead in the National League East over the New York Mets, who lost to San Diego 5-4 in 10 innings.

Dal Canton might go back to the bullpen, but his starting and winning performance was sorely needed by the Pirates, who have three starters out with injuries.

Bob Veale, sore arm, is expected back Saturday or Sunday, but it is not known when Bob Moose, sore elbow, will return and Steve Blass is on the disabled list after being hit on his pitching arm by a line drive.

In other NL action Wednesday, Houston hammered St. Louis 13-9, Los Angeles outlasted Montreal 12-10, the Chicago Cubs clubbed Cincinnati 10-2 and Philadelphia topped San Francisco 5-3.

Milwaukee downed the New York Yankees 4-1, Boston took California 7-4 and 8-3 in a day-night doubleheader, Oakland edged Washington 4-3, Cleveland downed the Chicago White Sox 6-2, Minnesota edged Detroit 2-1 and Baltimore shaded Kansas City 4-3 in 13 innings in the American League.

"I was happy to get four or five innings, anything else was a bonus," Manager Danny Murtaugh said following Dal Canton's second major league start. He started against Los Angeles in 1967 and lost.

The 28-year-old right-hander, 5-11, had a five-hitter and a 5-1 lead before running into trouble in the eighth and being saved by bullpen colleague Dave Giusti.

Ivan Murrell's RBI single with two-out in the 10th off Nolan Ryan got San Diego by the Mets, who had taken a 4-3 lead on Bud Harrelson's sacrifice fly in the ninth only to have the Padres tie it 4-4 on Nate Colbert's leadoff homer in the bottom of the ninth. Murrell followed with a single to knock out Tom Seaver for the first time since May 6.

Ed Spiezio socked a two-run homer to give San Diego a 3-3 tie in the seventh.

Bob Bailey drove in four runs with a homer and two-run double. Ron Fairly smacked a two-run homer and John Bateman cracked a two-run single as Montreal built up a 10-4 lead, but Los Angeles came back to win on an eight-run seventh inning. Big blows of the inning for the Dodgers were a grand slam homer by Ron Fairly and a solo shot by Von Joshua.

St. Louis took a 6-3 lead with five runs on two hits in the third, but Houston came back to go ahead to stay in the fourth with seven runs on three hits, four walks and an error as the Cardinals lost their fourth straight game and for the 13th time in 15 games.

Jim Wynn homered for Houston and Richie Allen and Jose Cardenal connected for St. Louis.

Chicago rode over Cincinnati as Jim Hickman hit a three-run homer and an RBI single. Billy Williams added a two-run homer for the Cubs.

SPORT SHORT

NEW YORK (AP)—Floyd Patterson, the former world heavyweight champion, will end a two-year absence from the ring when he meets Charlie Green Sept. 15 in Madison Square Garden, it was announced Wednesday.

BOSTON (AP)—A total of 4,729 fans attended Wednesday's separate admission day and night doubleheader between the Boston Red Sox and the California Angels.

This boosted the Fenway Park attendance for the year to 1,011,382, making the Red Sox the first team in the American League to go over the million mark.

Casper Teams With Greene in Match

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Golf Writer
LIGONIER, Pa. (AP) — "I've got me a horse, man, good as Nashua," said Bert Greene. "All I've got to do is just ride him."

Greene, a hard-hitting youngster who has yet to score his first official victory on the pro tour, has Billy Casper as a partner in the $200,000 National Four Ball Championship.

The event, last played in 1968, started a 72-hole run today on the plush, 7,045-yard, par-71 Laurel Valley Golf Club, Arnold Palmer's home course. It's a team championship in which 60 teams of two players each keep their score on the better ball.

Players picked their own partners, with the duo of Palmer and Jack Nicklaus the heavy favorites. Nicklaus, the recently crowned British Open champion, had business commitments in New York and Michigan early in the week and did not arrive in time for a practice round.

Some other top teams include George Archer and Bobby Nichols, winners of the last Four Ball, Ken Still and Gene Littler, winners of last year's team CBS Classic, brothers Dave and Mike Hill, Bruce Devlin and Bob Charles, Miller Barber and Don January.

Greene, a lean, 26-year-old with thinning blond hair, got paired with Casper almost by accident.

"I had a long-standing agreement with Gary Player to play with him the next time we had the Four Ball," Casper said. "Then Gary decided to go home to South Africa after the British Open."

"Well, back in January, Bert had asked me to play with him. I told him I would if something happened that Gary didn't play. So when he dropped out, I went with Bert."

Greene has been out of action for two weeks with a torn muscle in his left shoulder.

"I wasn't supposed to play this week," he said today before starting out in his first round. "But I told the doctor, man, I've got to go with that horse I've got."

"Besides, it feels pretty good. I'm swinging okay and it doesn't hurt."

Greene, one of the hardest hitters on the tour despite his slim build, has won about $31,000 this season, his third year on the tour. Casper, of course, ranks as one of the giants of the game, with Palmer and Nicklaus.

Although the tournament is a national championship, Casper said he did not believe it would ever rank with the game's Big Four, the Masters, the PGA and the U.S. and British Opens.

"Not as a team event," he said. "I don't think a team event could get in that company. Maybe a match play championship, but the Big Four are so firmly entrenched that it would be very difficult for a new tournament to break into that category."

unacceptable as a mediation site because "there are some indications that efforts might be made to involve people in political life in Washington." Other than to say some unnamed congressmen, Kheel wouldn't amplify this comment.

Most of the 26 teams have begun practices for rookies but the experienced players have been locked out of training camp by the owners and barred from reporting by the NFLPA.

The contract disagreement primarily centers around increased payments into the player pension fund by the owners and it is said the two sides are $7.6-million apart on a projected four-year contract.

Halas and Hunt, in their joint statement, said the owners "foresee a lengthy strike ... because of the extreme seriousness of the current impasse."

Even though the owners are pessimistic, Halas and Hunt said it was the "collective position of the member clubs of the NFL that no avenue should be left unexplored in an effort to assure that the 1970 season will open on schedule."

"We have therefore agreed to the use of federal mediation—although it is a complete departure from professional football and its very strong tradition of self-government," the conference presidents added.

The College All-Star Game is the first exhibition contest of the season.

Perranoski in 24th Save of Season

By TOM SALADINO

Associated Press Sports Writer
Reliever Ron Perranoski made his brief stay a perfect one for the West leading Minnesota Twins while the Baltimore Orioles, kings in the East, have been perfect for over a year against their Kansas City cousins.

Perranoski, the veteran southpaw, picked up his 24th save of the season Wednesday night, nailing the last four Detroit batters in preserving Jim Perry's 15th victory of the season—tops in the American League—as the Twins edged the Tigers 2-1.

Meanwhile the Orioles streaked to their 19th consecutive victory over the Royals and 11th straight at Kansas City, winning 4-3 in 13 innings.

The triumphs increased the Twins lead in the West Division to five over California while the Orioles lead the Tigers by five games in the East.

In other AL games, Boston swept a day-night twinbill from the Angels, 7-4, and 8-3, Oakland edged Washington 4-3, Milwaukee topped New York 4-1 and Cleveland belted Chicago 6-2.

In the National League, Chicago bombed Cincinnati 10-2, Pittsburgh trimmed Atlanta 5-3, Houston ripped St. Louis 13-9, Philadelphia rolled over San Francisco 5-2, San Diego shaded the New York Mets 5-4 in 10 innings and Los Angeles outslugged Montreal 12-10.

"Ron came in and did the job," said Twins' manager Bill Rigney. "Perry, Perranoski and Killebrew, that's an act I'd like to have for three or four more seasons," he added.

Perry, 15-7, pitched five perfect innings and allowed only two hits before Perranoski came to the rescue in the eighth with one Detroit run in and the tying run on second with two out.

Don Wert had both Detroit hits while Harmon Killebrew drove in both Twins runs off loser Mickey Lolich, 9-11, with a third inning single.

The Orioles kept their string alive when pinch-hitter Chico Salmon drove in the winning run with a two-out infield hit in the 13th inning.

Baltimore dropped its first game to the two-year old expansion club on May 9, 1969 and hasn't lost since. It was their 11th straight victory in Kansas City without a loss.

The Royals had pushed across a pair of runs in the eighth to tie it at 3-3 on singles by Pat Kelly, Lou Piniella and Bob Oliver and walks to Ed Kirkpatrick and Cookie Rojas.

Carl Yastrzemski collected three hits in each game, increasing his average to .323 to move into contention for his fourth batting title in the double victory over the Angels.

Yaz, hitting at a .523 clip, increased his hitting streak to 12 consecutive games with 23 hits in 44 attempts. Yastrzemski had three singles in the opener while Boston teammate Reggie Smith drove in three runs with a double and triple.

In the nightcap, the Boston slugger had a pair of singles and a double while John Kennedy had a homer and George Thomas a two-run double. Tom Egan and Roger Rpoz had homers for the Angels.

Oakland erupted for three eighth-inning runs, the last coming on Washington reliever Darold Knowles' throwing error to overcome the Senators.

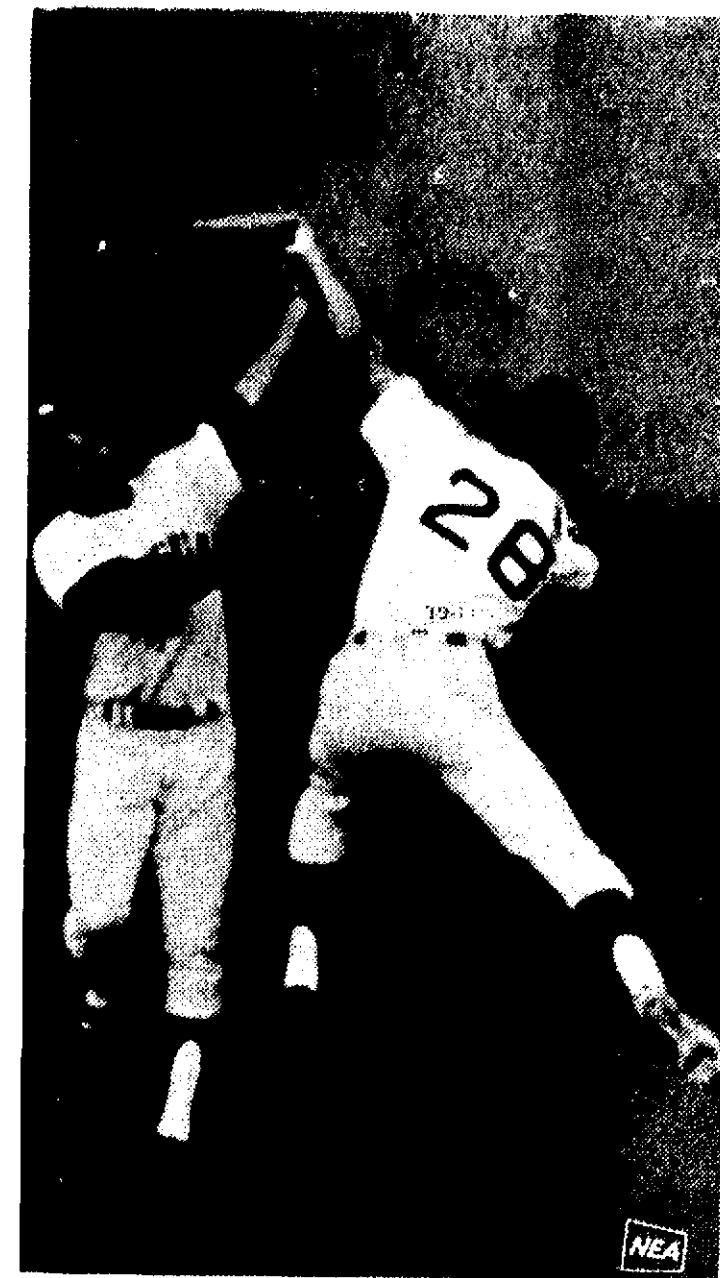

Felipe Alou opened the A's eighth with a homer and after a walk, Knowles came on. Joe Rudi ripped a pinch double to tie it at 3-3 before Knowles got the next two hitters. The left-hander then walked Dick Green intentionally. Then with Dave Duncan at bat, Knowles' pickoff throw to first went wild and the winning run came across.

Paul Casanova had a homer for the Senators.

Consecutive fifth inning homers by Ted Savage and Bob Burda snapped a 1-1 tie and sent the Brewers on their way to their first triumph over the Yankees this season. Bob Bolin tossed a six-hitter for the winners.

BATTING—Carl Yastrzemski, Red Sox, ripped three hits in each game as Boston took a day-night doubleheader from California, 7-4 and 8-3.

PITCHING—Bob Bohn, Brewers, tossed a six-hitter as Milwaukee downed the New York Yankees, 4-1.

WALLFLOWERS—It's up the wall for Houston's Jimmy Wynn and Cesar Cedeno, No. 28, as they make sure that Cincinnati pitcher Gary Nolan's hard-hit ball is caught. Both outfielders came down with the ball but Cedeno was credited with the catch.

Witnesses to be Called in Umpire Case

By STEVEN A. COHEN

BOSTON (AP)—The American League planned to call its witnesses today at a National Labor Relations Board hearing into the firing in 1968 of umpires Bill Valentine and Al Salerno.

Atty. James Gerner, counsel for the league, said he thought one day would be sufficient to present his witnesses, thus ending eight days of hearings before Board Examiner David Davidson.

Davidson then will give both sides several weeks in which to file briefs before he offers an opinion—one that can be overruled by board officials in Washington, and one that requires Federal Court concurrence if either side refuses to implement his decision.

Atty. Henry Kalleher, counsel for Valentine and Salerno, rested his case Wednesday, following two days of testimony by American League President Joe Cronin.

Salerno, a major league umpire for seven years, and Valentine, a six year veteran, contend in an unfair labor practice suit that they were fired for trying to organize a collective bargaining unit for American League umpires.

Cronin said Wednesday that "I still maintain that negotiations of contracts with league umpires are individual matters..." but said the two were fired because of "arrogance" and failure to keep an even temper.

"An umpire must exercise patience and judgement," said Cronin, who also said he had been unaware at the time that Salerno and Valentine were involved in any union organizational activity.

Kalleher said Cronin was in Chicago Sept. 12, 1968 four days before the umpires were fired—and at a time that Salerno attended a Chicago meeting of the National League umpires' organization.

Cronin had testified earlier that he often knew of his umpires' whereabouts and activities, but said he was in Chicago to attend a meeting with the television committee of the baseball commissioner's office, and he had no idea that Salerno was at the umpires' meeting.

Cronin further told Davidson that between 1960 and 1968, four major league umpires had been returned to the minors. When asked why Salerno and Valentine had not been optioned to the minors, Cronin said Salerno had an offer from the International League but turned it down.

Cronin said he met with league umpires at least twice to discuss benefit and expense demands.

Cronin's testimony followed a week of testimony by several umpires and ball club officials. During the earlier sessions, Salerno and Valentine had been judged "very capable" and

"very competent" by Dick Williams, former manager of the Boston Red Sox and now coach of the Montreal Expos, and Eddie Stanky, former manager of the St. Louis Cardinals and the Chicago White Sox.

They also were rated as highly competent in testimony by Alvin Dark, manager of the Cleveland Indians and John Flaherty, a league umpire since 1953.

U.S. Runners Meet Soviets in Leningrad

By MICHAEL JOHNSON

Associated Press Sports Writer
LENINGRAD (AP)—A young and spirited U.S. track and field team meets a strong Russian team today—and gets the dubious honor of breaking in a new rubberized asphalt track in the process.

"This is going to cause problems for some of our runners," said American Coach Leroy Walker of Durham, N.C., viewing the track at Lenn Stadium for the first time Wednesday.

"It leaves a lot to be desired," Traction problems are expected, especially for the hurdlers. Workers were still painting the lanes on the black surface Wednesday evening.

But Walker noted philosophically that the uneven track will be bad for both teams, favoring neither the Russians nor the Americans.

The two-day competition, the ninth meeting of U.S. and Soviet track and field teams, starts at 11 a.m. EDT, with the men's 100-meter dash.

"The Soviet team, as always, will be a very formidable opponent," Walker told a news conference on the eve of the meet. He acknowledged it would be the roughest test yet for the U.S. team.

The Americans defeated France but lost to a West German team before coming to Leningrad. They were not allowed to try out the new track by this morning, although some Soviet runners were seen jogging on the soft, rubber-asphalt combination late Wednesday.

Tim Volmer, discus thrower representing the U.S. Army, said most of the Americans feel they should have had a chance to work out in the 30,000-seat Lenn Stadium before the competition started.

The U.S. line-up remains unchanged from Stuttgart, where the men's team was victorious but the women lost, giving the Germans the overall victory.

Richy Loses Concentration in Tourney

CINCINNATI (AP)—While Cliff Richey's thoughts drifted, upset-minded Patricio Cornejo of Chile nearly slipped by him in the Western Tennis Championships Wednesday.

Richey, defending champion of the $25,000 tourney and the No. 2 seed this year, blanked the unseeded Chilean 6-0 in the first set, dropped the second 3-6 but rallied to take the third 6-3.

"I lost concentration," said Richey of San Angelo, Tex. "That was the big thing, pure and simple. You don't lose concentration and play well in this game."

"There are a lot of little reasons. I've been playing a lot of tennis lately."

Cornejo, who admitted that he was physically drained in the third set, felt he merely got off to a bad start.

"My service wasn't good and I just couldn't hit the ball in the first set," he said. "He (Richey) played well. He didn't give me a chance."

The tourney's top-seeded man, Ken Rosewall of Australia, also rolled to an easy first set victory—6-2 over Jim McManus of Berkeley, Calif.—but had to come back from a 5-6 deficit in the second for an 8-6 score to win the match.

Unseeded Ray Ruffels of Australia ended up with the only real upset of third-day action in the tournament that winds up Sunday. Ruffels knocked off 13th-seeded Joaquin Loyo-Mayo of Mexico 8-6, 6-1 and will meet eighth-seeded Clark Graebner of New York City in the third round of competition.

Ruffels has lost to Graebner in Davis Cup play, at Wimbledon and at Madison Square Garden.

"Maybe it's my turn to win," Ruffels said. "Clark has beaten me three times on fast courts, which we both play best on. This time it might be a matter of who plays worse on clay."

In women's play Wednesday, top-seeded Nancy Richey of San Angelo, Tex., zipped by unseeded Gail Hansen of Palo Alto, Calif., 6-0, 6-1 in second-round play.

Eighth-seeded Linda Tuero of Metairie, La., edged unseeded Becky Vest of Jackson, Miss., 6-3, 7-5 in a match in which 65 shots were exchanged for one particular point.

In first-round women's doubles, Rosemary Casals of San Francisco and Gail Chaudreau of Paris, France, the No. 1 seeded doubles team, dropped Lita Laem and Lany Kaligis of Indonesia 6-1, 6-1.

The men's top-seeded doubles tandem, Bob Hewitt and Frew McMillan of South Africa, defeated Bob Pothead of Cupertino, Calif., and Tom Gorman of Arcadia, Calif., 6-3, 7-5.

Melodrama at British Sports Games

By GEOFFREY MILLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
EDINBURGH, Scotland (AP) — The Commonwealth Games continued against a hint of melodrama today, with everyone in this excited city talking of Kip Keino, who won a gold medal with a death threat hanging over his head.

The threat to Keino, contained in anonymous letters and a telephone call, evidently worried him but did not stop him from winning the 1,500-meter gold medal in majestic cycle at Meadowbank Stadium Wednesday.

Nor did it stop him from planning his usual morning run today to the top of Arthur's Seat, the craggy hill that overlooks the stadium and the athlete's village. That is part of his preparation for the attack on the big double — the 5,000 and 1,500-meter races.

After Keino's great run Wednesday police revealed they had inspected a row of apartment buildings that overlook the stadium. An assassin with a telescopic rifle would be able to take aim from one of the top windows of the building.

A police spokesman said that while the threat to Keino was possibly a hoax, it was being taken seriously.

The Keino drama deepened when Ben Gethi, commandant of the Kenyan team, announced he had something important to say but would keep it to himself until the games end next Saturday.

Gethi was answering news-men's questions about the threat to Keino. He was asked whether his promised statement had anything to do with the threats. He replied, "Yes, it has."

The crowd of 30,000 was blissfully unaware of the backstage drama as they watched Keino win the 1,500 meters in a thrilling two-man duel with Dick Quax of New Zealand. The Kenyan finished in 3:36.6 and lowered his own Commonwealth Games record of 3:37.3. Queen Elizabeth II handed him his gold medal.

Keino now 30, said he intended to concentrate on the 5,000 meters in future, and might possibly compete in the 10,000. But he said he thought this would be his last Commonwealth Games.

Report on Pensy Credit Ignored

By JEAN HELLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Two days before the Nixon administration killed its proposed $200 million loan guarantee for the Penn Central Railroad, the Federal Reserve warned that such a loan probably would merely postpone bankruptcy proceedings.

In a confidential credit report, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York also said it could not certify the financially troubled railroad's ability to repay such a loan.

The report was dated June 17. Under normal procedures it should have been delivered immediately to the federal agency guaranteeing the loan, in this case the Defense Department. Two days after the report was dated, the Defense Department was still pushing the planned loan.

The fact prompted Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of the House Banking Committee, to charge Wednesday as he released the report that the administration sought to proceed with the loan guarantee despite the Fed's warning.

Patman said the report was flown to Washington on the 17th and delivered by courier to the Federal Reserve System's board of governors for forwarding to the Defense Department. It could not be determined immediately when the Defense Department received the report.

As late as 8 a.m. June 19, Deputy Secretary of Defense David M. Packard told Patman his department intended to proceed with the guarantee. Late that afternoon, after a round of private meetings, the administration announced it had killed the plan. It was not known how much influence, if any, the Fed's report had on the final decision.

Two days later, Penn Central filed for reorganization under the bankruptcy act.

Under the administration proposal, known as a V-loan guarantee agreement, several New York City banks would have issued the loan to the Penn Central. The loan would have been guaranteed by the Defense Department under the 1950 Defense Production Act.

"The cash needs of the company through the year 1971, could, in our estimation, reach or exceed one-half billion dollars," the Fed's report said. "The proposed V-loan financing in the amount of $200 million maturing on Oct. 31, 1970, of itself, would provide inadequate assistance to the company and, in all likelihood, merely postpone the institution of proceedings under the Bankruptcy Act."

The only apparent way to help the railroad, the report said, would be passage of legislation establishing a government-loan guarantee program and providing the Penn Central with $500 million for extended periods under the program. Such legislation had been proposed.

Yaz Hits According to Situation

BOSTON (AP) — Carl Yastrzemski has a better formula than worrying about whether he can win another batting title: he just hits .500 for a while and lets the other guys worry.

"I'm not thinking about any batting championship," the Boston Red Sox slugger said Wednesday night after collecting six hits in leading his team to a sweep of a day-night doubleheader with the California Angels.

"I just hit according to the situation," Yaz explained. "I'm not going to be swinging for a base hit in situations where we need the long ball. That may mean sacrificing some hits, but I'm not going to worry about it."

Yastrzemski already has three American League batting championships to his credit, but until lately no one would have given him much chance for a fourth this year. Exactly one

Kapp Is Problem for Vikings

By BEN THOMAS
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Minnesota Vikings have contract problems of their own in addition to the stalemate negotiations which are keeping all veteran players out of National Football League training camps.

Pro football's rookies, however, are getting a lot closer look from the coaching staffs of the various teams and this is one reason why many veteran players are working out together in sites near their respective training camps.

Minnesota's special contract problem concerns quarterback Joe Kapp, who led the Vikings to the 1969 NFL crown. The St. Paul Dispatch-Pioneer Press reported Wednesday that Kapp is holding out for a $1.25-million contract for five years.

Jim Finks, Viking general manager, later issued a statement saying he was hopeful negotiations with Kapp and his lawyer, John Elliott Cook of San Francisco, "may be resumed and I have absolutely no reason to believe that such a resumption is impossible."

Kapp played out his option last season and became a free agent on May 1.

A group of New York Jets are working out at Adelphi University of Long Island, only a few miles from the regular camp at Hofstra University.

Among Jet veterans is cornerback Cornell Gordon, who said he kept reading about the team's No. 1 draft choice, Steve Tannen, and "how good he is, how he's going to take my job. So I thought I'd better be here and get in shape."

While expressing concern over the absence of his regular

Advances in Girls' Tennis Tourney

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Top-seeded Marita Redondo of San Diego, Calif., advanced to the quarterfinals of the girls' 14 and under U.S. Lawn Tennis Association tournament Wednesday, defeating Betsy Nagelsen of St. Petersburg, Fla., 6-1.

Second-seeded Sandy Stap of Deerfield, Ill., and third-seeded Jeannie Evert of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., also advanced to the quarterfinals.

Top-seeded Lynn Epstein of Miami Beach advanced to the quarterfinals in the girls' 12 and under division along with Robin Tenny of Los Angeles.

Revokes One Sentence, Not Another

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A 10-year prison sentence given in 1956 to Robert Courtney, 34, was vacated Wednesday by U.S. District Judge Oren Harris.

However, Harris approved a 12-year sentence handed to Courtney in 1963.

Courtney, an inmate at Cummins Prison Farm, had filed a habeas corpus petition in district court charging that his constitutional rights were deprived. He contended he was not provided legal counsel.

The inmate was given the 10-year sentence in Poinsett County on a grand larceny charge with six years of that sentence suspended.

When he was convicted in 1963 of burglary and grand larceny, also in Poinsett County, he was given a 21-year sentence with nine years suspended. At that time the court revoked the 1956 suspension and ordered that he serve six years consecutively with the 1963 conviction.

month ago he was hitting .268 and appeared to be going nowhere fast.

Suddenly he broke loose, hitting "as well as I ever have," in a sustained surge of 4½ weeks. His average in this stretch has been .433, and for the last 12 games he's hitting at an incredible .523 clip with 23 hits in 44 at bats.

All this has boosted his season average 55 points to .323, putting him second in the league and only .005 behind leader Frank Robinson of Baltimore.

lars, Los Angeles Rams' Coach George Allen called their absence "a break for the rookies. They'll get almost individual attention."

The Rams signed free agents Sam Adams, a guard from Prairie View, and Dan Kubelka, a defensive tackle from San Fernando State, to increase their rookie count to 39.

The Dallas Cowboys cut two rookies following a game-condition scrimmage with the San Diego Chargers. Dropped were placekicker Ken Edmonds, from Norfolk State and wide receiver

Byron Olander from San Diego State.

Elsewhere around the training camps:

"They had a lot of hustle," said San Francisco 49er Coach Dick Nolan after the first scrimmage by his rookies.

Dave Del Signore, 15th-round draft choice from Youngstown and a wide receiver left the 49er came voluntarily. Rookie Paul Schmidlin, a defensive tackle from Ohio State, was shifted to middle linebacker by the Buffalo Bills. Charlie Pittman, from Penn State, and Charlie Collins, from Kansas State, were clocked as the fastest rookies in the St. Louis Cardinal camp, each covering 40 yards in 4.8 seconds. The Boston Patriots said their No. 1 draftee, lineman Phil Olsen from Utah State, was scheduled for surgery today to repair torn right knee ligaments.

Bruce Visits Saigon on Way to Paris

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — Ambassador David K.E. Bruce headed for Saigon today and consultations with South Vietnamese leaders before taking over as chief U.S. peace negotiator in Paris.

Bruce and Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, U.S. envoy to South Vietnam, left Washington Wednesday following discussions with President Nixon and other officials on projected new U.S. peace proposals at the stalled Paris talks.

These tentative new proposals reportedly are designed to offer Communist elements in South Vietnam an opportunity to share post-war political power in Saigon as part of an over-all agreement for ending the war and getting both U.S. and North Vietnamese armies out of the country.

Such proposals, implying some kind of future coalition government, are a sore point between the Nixon administration and Saigon.

Bruce presumably wants to form a first-hand impression of President Nguyen Van Thieu's stand on this issue and what proposition Thieu is prepared to accept.

Nixon reportedly has decided to move slowly in presenting new proposals to the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese at Paris. They may not be formulated and introduced before September.

Meanwhile, Ambassador Philip C. Habib returned to Paris Wednesday to continue as acting head of the U.S. team until Bruce takes over. Habib has been chief U.S. negotiator since Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge resigned last December.

The issue of how to form the peacetime government in Saigon, and particularly what assurances might be given the Communists in advance of elections, is regarded by many well-informed diplomats as the central issue of the peace talks.

Nixon said earlier this week the United States is flatly against an imposed coalition government for South Vietnam and favors post-war elections in which the Communists could participate—a proposal on which he and Thieu agree.

But the President kept the door open to some other means of political settlement saying if the present parties in the South Vietnamese legislature "should negotiate a settlement with other political parties (meaning the Communists and others in opposition) that is a decision for the people of South Vietnam."

The administration's strategy in peace-seeking obviously is to hold out the prospect of a share in post-war power to the Communists in an effort to get them to negotiate seriously in Paris—or in some other larger Indo-China peace conference if that should prove feasible.

Officials here say they detect no evidence of any movement in the Communist position, although spokesmen continue to demand changes in the Saigon government as part of a peace agreement.

Memo Hoax, Agnew Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has denounced as a hoax a memorandum, allegedly written on his stationery, which calls for repeal of the Bill of Rights and postponement of the 1972 elections.

Agnew said Wednesday he learned the memo would be printed in the next issue of Scanlan's Monthly magazine.

"This is a totally spurious document and an irresponsible action of the editors in not checking my office as its authenticity," Agnew said in a statement released by his office. "I unequivocally denounce this hoax and whatever motives that may lie behind it."

Agnew E. Zon and Warren Hinckle III, editors of the West Coast magazine, said in a statement: "The vice president's denial is as clumsy as it is fraudulent. The document came directly from Mr. Agnew's office and we have it. We do not hesitate to publish our credibility against it."

Mexicans Are Fed in Michigan When Poor Crop Wipes Out Jobs

ROTHBURY, Mich. (AP) — Hundreds of Mexican-American migrant farm workers are receiving emergency food supplies in Oceana County after being forced out of work by a poor cherry harvest.

Clyde Lombard, director of the county's welfare department, said the county provided surplus foods for 662 migrants during the first 15 days of July.

Ray Delgado, state chairman of La Raza Unida, a Latin American organization, said 100 to 150 other migrants are being fed through a federally financed program at his home here.

But Delgado said the $500,000 provided by the government, "can't last forever and more people are coming here every day."

The state's red tart cherry crop has been damaged by severe winds and storms this year, leading officials to cut crop estimates by 20 million pounds from the 210 million predicted by government forecasts.

Martin Morales, assistant director of the Human Relations Commission for the Grand Rapids Catholic Diocese, urged some of the migrants last week "to get ready to march to the governor's office in Lansing" to protest their plight.

Morales insisted later that

PAPERS HIT

page is mine, and this sort of tactic by Rockefeller or his people won't get me to change it," Whitehead said.

Ward disagreed, however, with the statement that the news columns were free of editorial opinion.

"The editorial is all over the newspaper," he said. "It's just one big editorial, and that goes for Cliff Wells' papers, too. I don't think they amount to much as newspapers."

Wells, said, however that he believed his newspaper's news columns were fair and that the editorial page reflected opinion. "On the editorial page, I'll say what I want to," Wells said.

William D. Leavitt, an advertising man who placed the Rockefeller column for the governor, said the fact that the newspapers were omitted from the list of those getting the advertising had nothing to do with their editorial policies.

"It was just a coincidence," Leavitt said.

He said the copy was rushed to publishers, but that, in the process, he decided that there was no need to publish the material in every weekly. "We didn't have time to sit down and refine the list and hold it to the areas where we thought voters would be most receptive to the governor," Leavitt said. "I just happened to know of those two papers off the top of my head."

He said neither paper had a sizable circulation among people who were inclined to support the governor. "Why waste money when people's minds are made up and aren't going to be open and objective?" he said.

Ward concurred. Robert Fisher of Rockefeller Public Relations said he doubted that editorial policies figured in the decision to bypass Wells and Whitehead, but he added: "Cliff has been a very vocal critic of the governor in times past and that could be a good reason not to spend any money there."

While the Headlight was bypassed, the column was printed in the Morrilton Democrat, where Gene Wirges, longtime supporter of Rockefeller, holds forth. The Democrat's circulation is less than that of the Headlight by a sizable proportion, Wells said.

Leavitt said the list of weeklies receiving the Rockefeller ads probably would be further reduced through the effort to place the business in the areas where voters seem most inclined to hear the governor's views.

"these people didn't come here for handouts. Any person who travels thousands of miles to work for a lousy $1.00 an hour is not looking for handouts."

He contended that Texas banks provided loans to help bring the migrant workers to Michigan and added, "anytime a bank will loan money to someone going to work thousands of miles away, that person must be honest and have dignity and honesty on his side."

Allen Named New Police Chairman

ATLANTA (AP) — During his eight years as mayor of Atlanta, Ivan Allen Jr. gave high priority to improving his police force and devising ways to cut down on crime.

Now he has a chance to perform a similar chore on the national scale.

He was named Wednesday as chairman of the board of directors of a police development fund to which the Ford Foundation is giving $30 million.

The fund's job will be to improve the effectiveness of police departments throughout the country.

Allen, 59, was mayor during a turbulent time of sit-ins and stormy racial controversy and lived in the midst of controversy and confrontation.

Atlanta was one of the first cities to employ community service officers, who, without guns, patrolled selected areas to increase police rapport with poor black and white citizens.

Mid 70 Events Could Shape Environment

By BRIAN SULLIVAN
AP Science Writer

Mid-year of 1970 brought two major events that could shape much of the fight to save the American environment throughout this decade, and beyond.

One of them, President Nixon's sweeping attempt to coordinate the federal environmental effort, holds the promise of making the fight more effective.

But the other, the discovery of widespread and dangerous mercury poisoning of many American waters, promises that the struggle will be even more difficult than many had feared.

While any benefits to come from the President's proposed reorganization are some time away, making this a potential gain, the mercury pollution is an immediate reality and a major loss on any scorecard of man's antipollution race.

In pulling together a variety of pollution control efforts now scattered throughout government into one new agency, the Environmental Protection Agency, the President hopes to overcome the present system, which he said "often defies effective and concerted action."

One phase of the reorganization plan should please environmentalists—removing from the Atomic Energy Commission the authority for setting radiation exposure standards. Environmentalists have long charged the AEC with a conflict of interest, promoting the use of atomic energy while being responsible for regulating it.

The President also proposes combining air and sea research under a new National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration within the Commerce Department. It is being called "Noah."

Unless Congress objects, the entire plan goes into effect in 60 days from the July 9 announcement. Observers expect controversy over the AEC proposal.

The discovery of significant amounts of mercury in waters of at least 17 states takes on even more importance because it appears most people did not suspect the problem even existed. Just how widespread, how serious, and what damage to human health may already have occurred, is unknown. And what of all the other chemicals in the environment?

Mercury, the liquid inside ordinary thermometers, is a heavy metal that is poisonous to humans. It finds its way to water, federal officials say, in waste from industry, from paper, chlorine, sodium and plastics operations.

It can cause progressive brain damage, blindness, kidney damage, death. It can persist in water for 100 years, experts say. Industrial pollution experts previously believed that mercury did not dissolve in water, but sank harmlessly to the bottom of rivers and lakes.

But for all the awareness, there is still a lot of adverse ecological news.

The government's effort to ban lead from gasoline is in trouble in Washington and the 1970 cars on the road have failed to meet exhaust reduction standards.

If everybody stopped polluting Lake Erie today it would take at least 12 years for the lake to regenerate naturally.

The Seminole and Miccosukee Indians have leased exploration rights to 100,000 acres of their land in the heart of the Florida Everglades to major oil companies, posing a new threat to the ecology of the Everglades.

Further, Florida faces pollution problems of "catastrophic proportions" in the 1970s, according to a state report. Plans for coping with the problem are termed "grossly inadequate and ineffective."

Of the positive steps taken, many, like the President's reorganization plan, require time before they can produce results.

But as an indication of the changing times and attitudes, there is the new policy of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers—a group often considered as "an enemy of the people" by conservationists because of the engineers' preoccupation with construction.

Lt. Gen. F. J. Clarke, chief of the Army engineers, unveiled the policy statement in Washington, committing the corps to "give full consideration to environmental values along with economic, social and technical factors" in projects such as dam building. Also on the plus side of the environmental scorecard, some beginnings are being made on recycling materials rather than junking them.

Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., for example, is building a pilot plant in Akron, Ohio, for converting used tires into usable materials. If it works, Firestone says it will set up 10 plants around the country.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare has awarded a $364,000 grant to the National Association of Secondary Material Industries, Inc., to do a study of possible uses of solid wastes. It will focus on scrap copper, aluminum, lead, zinc, nickel alloys and stainless steel, precious metals, paper stock and textiles.

On noise pollution, Citizens for a Quieter City, a group of business and professional people in New York City, has designed a project aimed at substantially reducing the noise from jackhammers, automobile horns, sirens and garbage trucks in a 60-block area of Manhattan. The group, with a $300,000 Ford Foundation grant, will study how the noise reduction affects the attitudes and well-being of the people who live in the area.

Asks Purcell to Analyze Voting Act

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller today asked Atty. Gen. Joe Purcell to help him analyze the 1970 Federal Voting Rights Act amendments.

Robert W. Faulkner, Rockefeller's executive secretary, carried the letter to Purcell's office this morning.

Rockefeller wrote to Purcell after being asked by letter from U.S. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell to cooperate in implementing the new laws.

"I am analyzing this letter in order to make the correct and appropriate response and would appreciate your advice as to any legal problems or questions which you think arise out of the attorney general's request," Rockefeller said in the letter to Purcell.

The governor asked Purcell to respond within the next few days.

Purcell was unavailable for comment while campaigning in Northwest Arkansas for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Mitchell asked Rockefeller to respond by Aug. 3. If no positive response is received by that date, the U.S. attorney general's office will assume that Arkansas does not intend to comply with the new statute and appropriate action will be taken at the federal level to force implementation, Mitchell said.

The congressional action, signed June 22 by President Nixon extends to five years the basic provisions of the voting Rights Act of 1965 and broadens the original statute.

The law adopted by Congress suspends until Aug. 6, 1975, the use of literacy and similar tests in any state or county if those tests were not suspended previously by the 1965 act.

The 1970 amendments also eliminate residency requirement periods as a condition for voting for president and vice president and such uniform standards for absentee voter registration and absentee voting in presidential elections.

Perhaps the most notable change in the 1970 act is a reduction of the minimum wage for voting in all elections to 18 years.

Article 3, Section 1 of the Arkansas Constitution establishes the age of 21 as the minimum age for voting in Arkansas. The age limit also is stipulated in Amendment 8, adopted in 1919, to the state Constitution.

Arkansas law does not provide for the use of a literacy test.

Mitchell asked Rockefeller to review the 1970 act with other state officials and advise the federal office of the instructions regarding implementation of the provisions that would allow 18 year olds to vote.

That provision is to take effect for any election after Dec. 31 of this year.

"Based upon normal rules of construction, it is my view that each state must afford such individuals a reasonable opportunity to register so as to be eligible to vote in any primary or election held during 1971," Mitchell said.

Mitchell's letter said that while Arkansas law does not

Drilling Offshore Permitted

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Easing its pressure against new offshore oil drilling, the Interior Department accepted bids Wednesday on 19 offshore oil leases near the Louisiana coast. They totaled nearly $98 million.

Bids were received Tuesday on 21 of the 34 tracts placed up for bid. However, all bids were rejected on two of the smaller plots.

Income from the 19 bids approved Wednesday will total $97,769,013. The two bids turned down totaled $332,000.

A total of 73,360 acres was placed up for bid in what was termed a "drainage sale." This means the tracts offered involved oil deposits in danger of being drained by production on adjacent tracts.

The lease sale was the first held by the Interior Department since Interior Secretary Walter Hickel halted all such sales last March in the wake of a massive oil spill in the Gulf of Mexico.

The Interior Department held a hearing here last week on whether to place new oil and gas areas up for lease in another region of the Gulf which presently has no oil or gas drilling.

The single highest bid accepted was $23,062,500 by Forest Oil Corp. for tract No. 2079.

The second highest was $15,377,100 from a group composed of Signal Oil and Gas, Louisiana Land Exploration Co., Amerada Hess and Marathon for tract No. 2097.

The bids included bonuses to be paid to the federal government. In addition, the companies would be required to pay royalties on actual production from the tracts on a continuing basis in the future.

permit persons to vote until they have reached the age of 21, "under the supremacy clause of the United States Constitution, the present inconsistent provision of state law is superseded."

Congress directed Mitchell to institute legal proceedings if they became necessary to implement title III, which provides the vote for 18-year olds.

A suit also has been filed to determine whether the Congressional action can withstand legal challenge since the measure was not a constitutional amendment.

The provisions regarding residency requirements relate only to election of a president and vice president and does not affect requirements in regard to the congressional, state or local elections.

The same state constitutional sections establishing voting age and other voting rights stipulate the residency requirement of one year in the state, six months in the county and lesser periods in the city or ward where the elector makes his home.

Hijacked Airliner Returned

By PATRICK O'KEEFE
Associated Press Writer

ATHENS (AP) — The Arab hijacking of a Greek airliner ended with the arrival of the hijackers in Cairo, the safe return of the plane and its crew to Athens early today, and a promise of freedom for seven Arab terrorists held in Greece.

The hijackers, five men and a girl, released the plane's 47 other passengers and one of its eight crew members after the Greek government agreed to free two Arabs accused of bombing an Israeli airline office in Athens and five others serving terms of two to 17 years for two attacks on Israeli airliners at the Athens airport.

Authorities said the seven would be turned over to the International Red Cross one month after the two charged in the airline office bombing last November stand trial. The trial is scheduled to open Friday, and the two men are charged with murder, a Greek child having been fatally injured.

The hijackers commandeered the Olympic Airways Boeing 727 shortly after it took off from Beirut on a flight to Athens and Rome. After it landed at Athens, the Arabs rebuffed a number of offers, including one by the airline's owner, Aristotle Onassis, to become their hostages in return for the passengers' freedom.

Onassis also offered them an undisclosed sum of money, but the hijackers insisted on freedom for the seven Arab prisoners. The government finally agreed to the demand.

The plane flew to Cairo with the hijackers, seven crew members and an International Red Cross representative aboard as a hostage for the arrival in Egypt. The hijackers were met by Egyptian officials and driven away on a bus, and the plane returned to Athens. The Red Cross representative remained in Cairo.

The Popular Struggle Front, a small leftist organization of Palestinian guerrillas, announced in Damascus that it was responsible for the hijacking. The two Arabs who go on trial Friday are members of the Front.

An electronic device was installed at Beirut airport two weeks ago to detect passengers carrying metallic objects, but the device was not functioning Wednesday due to technical trouble, an official of the airport said.

While the plane sat on the runway at Athens, the ambassadors from Egypt and Jordan went to the control tower and argued with the hijackers by radio. Onassis rushed to Athens from his private island, Scarpia, where he was vacationing with his wife, the former Jacqueline Kennedy, and joined in the negotiations.

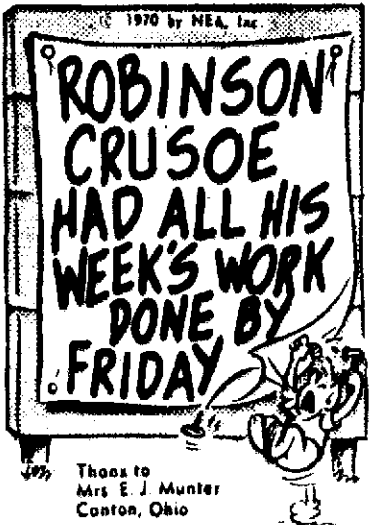

Five hundred policemen and soldiers with armored cars and machine guns stood by 500 yards from the plane but out of the passengers' sight.

Israeli newspapers denounced the Greek government for capitulating to the hijackers.

"Greece has not excelled lately in courage and self-respect where the Arab states are concerned," said the semi-official Davar. "We can only wait and see if the Greek rulers are capable of degrading themselves to the extent of releasing detainees accused of murdering a Greek child."

Another Tel Aviv daily, Haaretz, said in an editorial that if terrorist acts had been committed against the Greek military regime, "the huge police machinery at the disposal of the colonels would have shown more efficiency."

Rockefeller Press Column Appears

By BILL SIMMONS
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller again has taken up the pen, or had it taken up for him, to get his thoughts across to voters through a weekly newspaper column as the Aug. 25 primary election approaches.

The byline is given as "Governor Win Rockefeller," and the column is titled, "Let's Talk Arkansas."

Rockefeller has used the same format in his previous campaigns, packaging his opinions and his reading of the facts and displaying them in paid political advertisements.

Without naming individuals, the column takes issue with statements and positions of some of the other gubernatorial candidates, not only Rockefeller's three primary election foes, but also other party hopefuls.

The first of the 1970 columns, discussing teacher salaries, appeared last week and the second, on welfare payments, went out this week. They were paid for by Lt. Gov. Maurice Britt, Rockefeller's campaign manager.

The early columns were placed in about 120 of the state's 124 weekly newspapers at a total cost of roughly $2,400 per week, but the list of newspapers getting the column will be paired further.

William D. Leavitt of Leavitt, Ginnaven & Dietz, the advertising agency helping handle the Rockefeller re-election campaign, said the list of papers will be refined to keep the column mainly in areas where voters will be receptive to Rockefeller's views.

Some cuts may be made from the list also to avoid overlapping circulation of the weeklies, he said.

The first column said that some candidates "are claiming they would raise the salaries of our public school teachers to the national average with money saved through 'more efficient' government."

But, Rockefeller noted, $45 million a year would be necessary to elevate the pay of the state's 20,000 public school teachers from last year's average salary of $6,273 to the national average of $8,552.

Rockefeller said he has been working "every day" to bring about "decent pay" for teachers and maximum efficiency in state government. There are no "presto" solutions, he said.

Candidates who pledge to solve problems through efficiency alone cannot succeed in keeping the promise, Rockefeller said.

He illustrated his assertion by saying that even going beyond efficiency and resorting to abolition of some agencies and offices would not do the job.

For example, abolition of the state Revenue Department, Administration Department, General Assembly and offices of governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general, secretary of state, state auditor and state treasurer would produce only $7 million—$38 million short of the sum needed to boost teacher pay to the national norm, Rockefeller's column said.

The welfare column said that the Rockefeller administration, which granted a $6 monthly welfare raise on July 8, has not used welfare grants for political purposes. Some of the other candidates have suggested that the welfare increase was due to the fact that Rockefeller is seeking a third term.

"I look upon 'buying' votes with welfare grants as a form of cruelty," says the column under Rockefeller's name. He pledged that welfare recipients would have no cause to fear such treatment under his administration.

The column also points out that small welfare raises were granted in the nonelection years 1967 and 1969.

Robert Fisher of Rockefeller Public Relations said he was not certain but that he believed the columns were written or dictated by Rockefeller.

Big Defense Bill Is Under Fire

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate turned today to the $19.2 billion military procurement bill as part of the battle by defense spending critics to slash President Nixon's $70 billion Pentagon budget.

Although the procurement and research authorization bill contains the smaller amount, an informal group of 40 senators may choose to make it the vehicle for an amendment clamping a strict ceiling on all Pentagon spending in fiscal 1971.

That approach, which in effect, would order the Pentagon to make its own spending cuts as it sees fit, was reportedly the virtually unanimous choice of senators' aides who attended a private strategy session earlier this week.

The senators themselves have yet to approve or veto the spending-limit tactic and no fixed dollar figure for such a ceiling has been advanced.

The procurement bill—essentially the Pentagon's annual shopping list for new weapons systems and the research which makes them possible—faces a series of challenges on full funding for specific items: the Safeguard antiballistic missile system, the $200 million contingency fund proposed for the C5 cargo plane, funds for the troubled F-14 fighter-bomber and several others.

It also will be the forum for debate and decision on the so-called "end the war amendment" sponsored by Sens. Hatfield and George McGovern, D-S.C.

A bird's brain is both large and heavy compared to its size.

Carswell Campaigns for Senate

By BEN FUNK
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Nattily dressed, quick with a smile and exuding confidence, G. Harold Carswell moves along the campaign trail delivering rapid-fire, off-the-cuff speeches.

He hardly seems the same man who received dejectedly last April 8 the news that the U.S. Senate, after hearing him described by some critics as racist and lacking judicial stature, had turned down his nomination to the Supreme Court.

Now Carswell is seeking the Republican nomination for the Senate seat being vacated by the retirement of Democrat Spessard Holland, and he says: "I never knew this life could be so great."

Peter Barr, whose public relations firm has helped shape the new Carswell image, says enthusiastically, "The guy has found his role in life."

A few days after his rejection by the Senate, Carswell resigned from the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals and announced he was going into politics.

He read his brief statement stiffly at a news conference in a Miami hotel.

His only smiles were forced. He refused to answer reporters' questions and left the news conference quickly.

In the following days the ex-judge shunned newsmen and virtually dropped from sight.

His lack of political experience was painfully apparent when he did make public appearances, as he answered questions hesitantly or left them hanging.

He had spent 12 years in the secluded life of the federal bench and it showed.

But with expert political guidance, Carswell's image has changed dramatically.

"We took him into a TV studio and worked with him for an hour on closed circuit," Barr recalls.

"He acted just like a judge. He would give you an answer, summarize it carefully, then give it to you again. But at the end of the hour, he was spitting it out like a born campaigner."

"Then we started him out on the trail in some small north Florida towns, so if he made mistakes they wouldn't hurt him too much. He didn't make a big one in the whole two or three weeks."

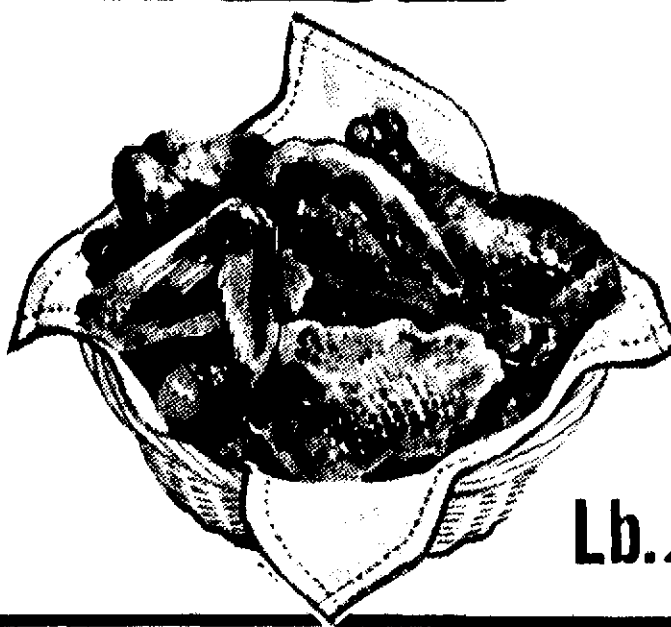

Carswell was ready to hit the Republican big towns, where he flails away at the news media and liberal senators he says engineered his Supreme Court defeat.

Some veteran Republicans think Carswell is headed for another heartbreak in the Sept. 8 primaries, but he doesn't believe it.

"Lots of Democrats are switching parties because they want a good strong conservative in Congress," he said. "They'll vote for me."

Garney Leaves McLaren Auto Racing Team

EDMONTON, Alta. (AP) — Dan Gurney of Costa Mesa, Calif., no longer is a member of the McLaren auto racing team in the Canadian-American Challenge Cup road racing series.

A spokesman for Edmonton International Speedway, where the Klondike 200 in the Can-Am series is scheduled for Sunday, said Gurney had to leave the McLaren team because of a conflict of interest.

The spokesman said Gurney had a contract with Castrol Oil Ltd. while the McLaren team had one with Gulf Oil Ltd.

Gurney, who was the points leader in the Can-Am series, joined Denis Hulme on the McLaren team after Bruce McLaren was killed in a crash while testing a new car in England in June.

No successor to Gurney has been named.

Insult Added to Injury—But It Was All a Mistake

Newspapers being what they are, their staffs get pretty riled when they suspect hometown folks of going out of their way to hand a local news "break" to an out-of-town paper.

That's how it was when H. C. Kennedy, who circulated the petition for an election to overturn the city-manager form of government, asked us not to publicize it until circulation was completed—on the grounds we would hurt his chances of success—and then went over to Texarkana and "broke" the story in the Texarkana Gazette.

If our organization was not about that one we were twice as hot this morning when we opened the Arkansas Gazette and saw a story and picture from Camden reporting that one Robert L. Herchert, acting city manager of Fairborn, Ohio, had been named city manager of Hope.

But on checking with city hall we found for once they were more disturbed than the newspaper organization.

The story simply wasn't so, and we promptly gave denials to the Associated Press from both Mayor Frank Douglas and City Manager G. G. Medders. The Little Rock AP bureau told us over the phone, however, that the wire had refused to pick up the Gazette's item because it didn't seem reasonable—an important announcement about Hope municipal affairs coming out of Camden. And the AP was smart in rejecting the story.

Of course these errors do happen. Mr. Herchert of Ohio no doubt has been made manager of some city—but not Hope. Our town has been in the news, of course, with an election this month in which the city-manager form of government was retained. Some Gazette copywriter probably was thinking about that when he credited Mr. Herchert with a job but in the wrong town.

Ex-Mayor of Newark Convicted

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Former Newark Mayor Hugh J. Addonizio and four codefendants face up to 20 years in prison on each of 64 counts of conspiracy and extortion.

All five were convicted by a jury Wednesday night in what the federal government described as a Mafia-backed scheme to squeeze payoffs from contractors doing business with the state's largest city, which has a population of more than 400,000.

No date was set for sentencing by U.S. Dist. Court Judge George H. Barlow.

The trial, which began June 1, ended in a hushed courtroom in the state capital after the jury had deliberated less than six hours.

All five remained free on bail of $25,000 each pending sentencing.

Addonizio, who served 14 years in Congress, was re-elected mayor in 1966 but lost last month to Kenneth Gibson, the first black man elected mayor of a major Northeastern city.

Two Bombs Disrupt Parliament

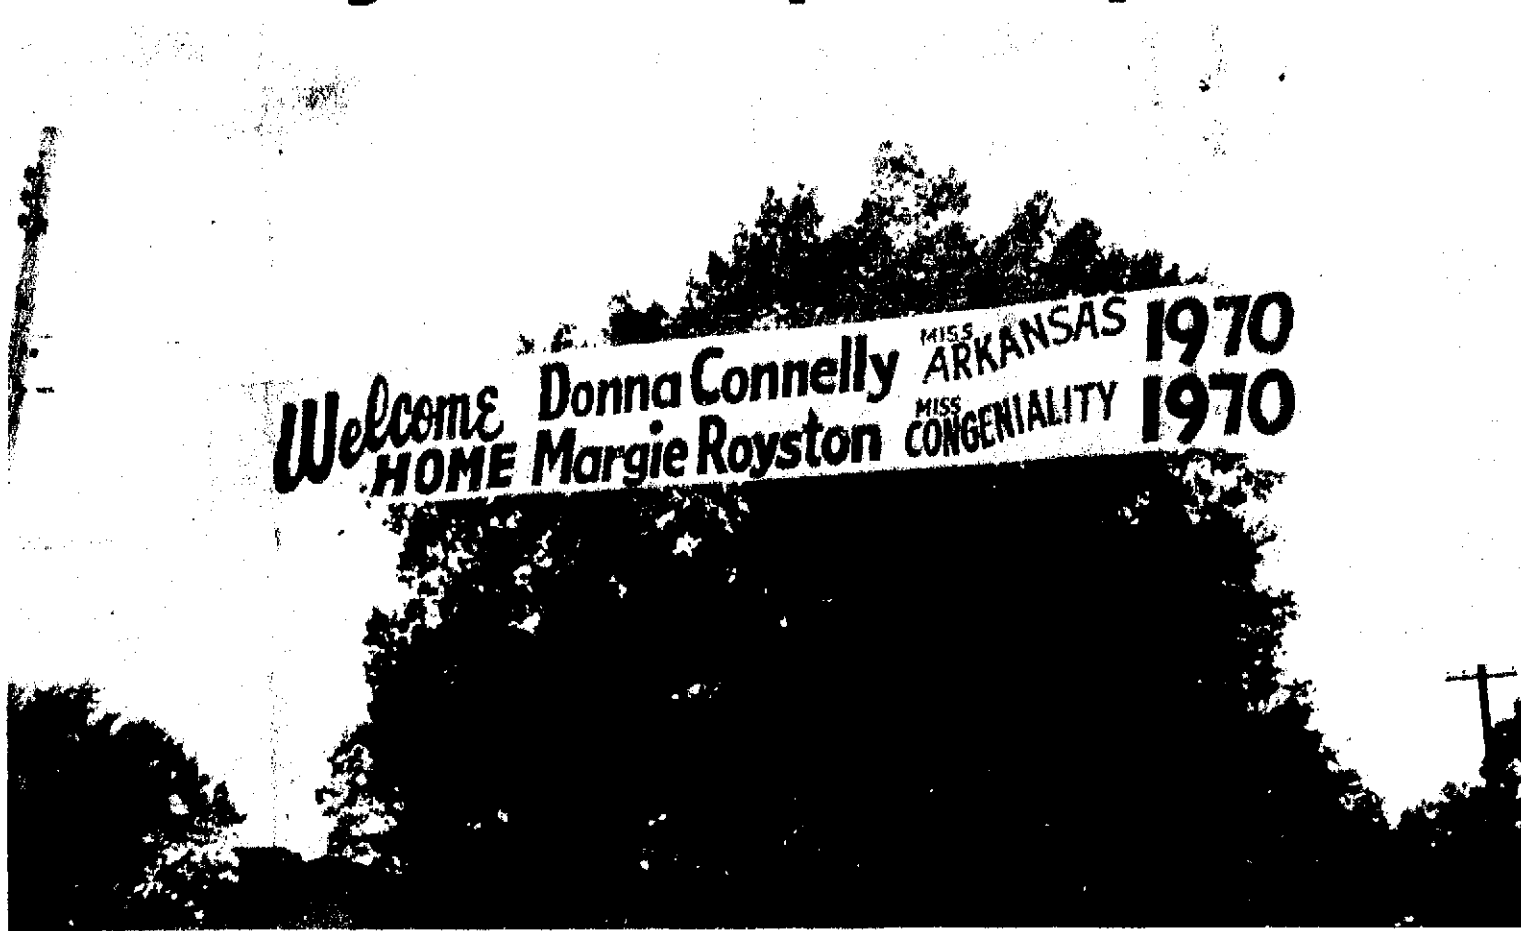

LONDON (AP) — Two bombs or heavy firecrackers exploded in the House of Commons today, sending clouds of smoke billowing up in the mother of Parliaments.

Members dived for the floor. In seconds, some members rushed through exits, heading away from the center of the smoke.

A man shouted unintelligibly from the gallery after the explosions.

The first explosion came near the opposition front bench. Mrs. Barbara Castle, former Labor cabinet minister, was one of the members who jumped clear from the flash and dashed from the chamber.

USSR Adds Libya to Arms Lists

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has expanded its military aid to another Arab state with a shipment of equipment, including tanks, to Libya, U.S. sources say.

They report a Russian vessel recently landed a cargo of T54 and T55 medium tanks, trucks and other vehicles at Tripoli, apparently the first ship load of Russian-supplied military gear to reach Libya.

This development is significant, in the view of U.S. intelligence analysts, because it indicates the Libyans may have decided to turn to the Russians for their army equipment.

Although the Tripoli regime is considered in the leftist Arab camp, U.S. authorities have been hopeful the new Libyan leaders would not tie their country to the Soviets.

At least six other Arab countries are receiving military equipment and are considered generally to side with the Soviets against the United States on most issues: Egypt, Syria, Algeria, the Sudan, Iraq and Yemen.

The struggle for the strategically located North African nation has been under way since last September when young Libyan army officers overthrew the generally pro-American King Idris.

The British and the Americans evacuated military bases at the request of the revolutionary government; the United States turning over its big Wheelus Air Base near Tripoli early last month.

The United States has supplied Libya with some F5 Freedom Fighter jets. In addition, the Libyans have been discussing with the French the possibility of acquiring some Mirage jet fighters.

The new Libyan leaders have tended toward strong ties with the neighboring Egyptians and some analysts have forecast the former Western airbases in Libya would be used by the Egyptian air force for training.

Some recent intelligence reports suggest that Egyptian warplanes have operated already out of the former British air base of El Adem in eastern Libya.

State 4-H Club Agent to Retire

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Dewey S. Lantip, 61, the state's 4-H club agent for the past 25 years has announced that he will retire July 31.

Lantip has been with the Agricultural Extension Service of the University of Arkansas for 45 years.

As 4-H agent, Lantip provided over all leadership in all areas of 4-H club work. He was active in the organization of clubs.

Investigators Find Little Food Value in Big-Name Cereals

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some of the most heavily advertised cereals—including Wheaties, Cheerios and the top brands of shredded wheat and corn flakes—have about as much nutritional value as a shot of whisky, Senate investigators were told today.

"In short, they fatten but do little to prevent malnutrition... They have calories and little else," Robert B. Choate, a Washington nutritional specialist, told a Senate consumer subcommittee.

"If a family likes dry cereals and can afford them, there are several with respectable nutritional content," he said in a prepared statement accompanying a detailed study of 60 cereal brands on the market.

"But," he added, "it is apparent in this first of several food industry analyses that we humans are viewed not as beings to be nourished, but as suckers to be sold."

Armed with charts, graphs and samples of television ads programmed for the nation's young, Choate presented a sweeping indictment of the cereal industry and called for a congressional investigation. The industry already is the subject of a Federal Trade Commission probe.

Cereal makers will be given a chance to respond later, sub-

Fair and Warmer for Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Clearing skies with slightly warmer weather is forecast for the state tonight as a low pressure area moves northeast. The remains of Hurricane Becky continue to dominate the Arkansas weather with cool temperatures, scattered reports of rain and cloudy skies.

Temperatures across the state this morning ranged from the upper 50s in the northwest to the upper 60s in the south.

Highs Wednesday ranged from 85 at Fort Smith to 74 at Jonesboro.

Overnight lows included 56 at Fayetteville, 66 at Harrison, 67 at Jonesboro, 65 at Pine Bluff, 67 at Texarkana, 66 at El Dorado, 69 at Memphis, 67 at Little Rock and 65 at Fort Smith.

Rainfall recorded during the 24 hour period ending at 7 a.m. today included .02 of an inch at Jonesboro, .24 at Pine Bluff and .15 at Memphis.

committee aides said.

Choate said a frequent defense of the dry-cereal industry takes the form of describing a cereal's nutrient value in combination with sugar and milk.

But, Choate said, his studies showed the average cereals—those outside of the top 20—fail as a complete meal even with milk added. Even if the amount of cereal were doubled while the milk remained constant, the nutrient value of these meals would still be inadequate.

Choate, a citizen-lobbyist who runs a small consulting firm, has studied the nation's food policies for the past three years. He told the subcommittee that he had worked during that period with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, with the Senate Select Committee on Human Needs and on last year's White House nutrition conference.

"A study of 60 ready-to-eat cereals reveals that they are primarily calorie sources, the nutrient content of 40 of the 60 being so low as to remind this observer of the term 'empty calories,' a term thus far applied to alcohol and sugar," Choate said.

"Calories," he added, "are a measure of the energy volume of food, but food must contain more than calories if one is to remain healthy."

Submitting a chart ranking 60 popular cereals, Choate said "three of the cereals—Kellogg's Product 19 and General Mills' Kaboom and Total—seem clearly the best from a nutrient standpoint."

He listed six others which he said seem nutritionally meritorious. They are Nabisco 100 percent Bran, Quaker Oats Life, General Foods Fortified Oat Flakes, Kellogg's Special K, General Foods Super Sugar Crisp and Kellogg's Sugar Snacks.

P.B. Firm Upheld on Labor Count

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) —

The National Labor Relations Board notified Brown Manufacturing Co. here Wednesday that the board has found merit in the company's unfair labor practice charge against the United Furniture Workers for America, according to Jeff Starling, company attorney.

The charge alleged that the union had "engaged in acts of violence, intimidation and threats against nonstriking employees."

Prejudice Is Charged to NLRB

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Association of Manufacturers accused the National Labor Relations Board Wednesday of promoting unionism, and urged that cases involving unfair practice charges be taken out of its hands.

J. Frank Ogletree Jr. of Greenville, S.C., a member of NAM's industrial relations committee, said the courts should handle unfair practice cases. He told the Senate judiciary subcommittee on separation of powers that the NLRB has decided cases in an improper and biased manner.

"It has misinterpreted the statute, has substituted its own policies for those adopted by Congress and has given undue weight to promotion of unionism in order to favor unions over employees, employers and the public. It has not, as intended by Congress, acted as a neutral governmental body," Ogletree said.

The subcommittee is considering a measure by Sens. John G. Tower, R-Tex., and Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., which would continue the NLRB as an administrative agency handling representation cases, including the conduct of representation elections, but would turnover unfair practices cases to the courts.

A spokesman for the AFL-CIO testified in opposition to the bill Tuesday.

The Southern States Industrial Council, the Associated Builders and Contractors, and the American Retail Federation also supported the bill.

Whooping Crane Nests in Canada Menaced by Big Forest Fire

CALGARY, Alta. (AP) — A forest fire was advancing on the nesting grounds of the rare whooping cranes in Wood Buffalo National Park today, and about 110 troops were dispatched to help fight it.

"The fire is rapidly approaching their habitat," said a spokesman for the park service. "We have a critical situation there."

Dr. A. H. MacPherson, western director for the Canadian Wildlife Service, said 50 to 60 of the adult birds are in the park, plus yearling young and an unknown number that have hatched this summer.

Nine fires were reported burning over about 20,000 acres in the park, which straddles the

Prosecutor in Jam Over Mistrial

CONWAY, Ark. (AP) — Prosecutor Jeff Mobley of Russellville said Wednesday the setting of a date for the embezzlement trial of Robert L. Pruitt, former head cashier at State College of Arkansas was political harassment.

Circuit Judge Russell C. Roberts of Conway declared a mistrial in the case Wednesday morning after it was discovered that Mobley, who seeks re-election as prosecutor in the 5th Judicial District, had given campaign cards to two jurors.

Pruitt was on trial for allegedly embezzling $28,655.50 from SCA during a nine-month period last year.

Mobley said Wednesday he had been "partially responsible" for Francis T. Donovan of Conway entering the race for Circuit Judge against Roberts, who is seeking re-election.

Donovan affirmed that Mobley and "six or seven" other persons in Pope, Johnson and Yell counties had contributed to his campaign.

"I have felt all along and I still feel this case was set this close to election for political reasons," Mobley said. "I knew what would take place when I came here for this trial."

Mobley also charged that Roberts had "put" two opponents in the race against him. He identified the two as Andre E. McNeil of Conway and Alex Street of Russellville.

Mobley charged that Roberts had tried for 18 months to "find me an opponent."

He said Street's candidacy was designed to draw votes away from Mobley's home area at Russellville.

No Date on Korean Pullout

HONOLULU (AP) — A U.S.-South Korea defense conference has ended without a timetable for withdrawing almost a third of the 62,000 U.S. troops stationed in the Asian nation.

At the end of the two-day meeting Wednesday, a U.S. source said the withdrawal of 20,000 men would be a topic of "continuing consultation" with South Korean officials.

In Seoul, South Korean President Chung Hee Park said his government is "strongly opposed" to any U.S. troop cut-back in Korea in the next four or five years.

It was Park's first official reaction to the U.S. withdrawal plan.

South Korean Premier Chung Il-kwon had said earlier that he and his 10-man Cabinet would resign if the troops were withdrawn.

Park said the next four or five years would be the "most challenging and trying period for our national defense." He said North Korea realizes that South Korea's military and economic strength by 1976 will reach a stage which would force the Communist North to reconsider any plans to invade his country.

Fire Destroys Patmos Home

The Hope fire department reported a run to the Verdo Flowers home in Patmos just before midnight Wednesday. Neighbors saw the smoke and reported the fire which destroyed the house.

Papers Hit WR's Adv. Cancellation

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Two publishers of weekly newspapers say their publications have been dropped from Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's political advertisement schedules because of editorials critical of him and his administration.

One of the publishers, Clifton T. Wells of the Petit Jean Country Headlight at Morrilton, called the move an attempt to "intimidate" small papers that "dare to criticize Rockefeller."

Wells also asserted that recently at Winrock Farm Rockefeller suggested that he disliked editorials of the Headlight so much that the paper's photographer should be thrown into a swimming pool.

The photographer, 18-year-old Larry Miller, was at the farm at the time to take pictures at a banquet honoring recipients of scholarship grants from a Rockefeller fund. Miller said he did not know whether Rockefeller intended the remark as a joke, "but I remember that I didn't think it was funny."

Rockefeller could not be reached for comment.

Aides to the governor said they knew nothing about the incident with Miller, but confirmed that the papers run by Wells and Bill Whitehead, publisher of the News-Advocate at Fordyce, had been deleted from a list of papers that received advertisements in the form of a news column bearing Rockefeller's name.

The deletions were not an attempt to influence editorial policy, the aides said. One aide, John Ward of Rockefeller Public Relations, said, however, that in his personal opinion the editorial policies of the two papers would be good grounds for Rockefeller to refuse to place advertising with them.

"Frankly, and this is just my opinion, I would favor it," Ward said.

The Headlight and the News-Advocate have frequently been sharply critical of Rockefeller and the way he has run state government. In 1968, after the News-Advocate endorsed Marion H. Crank, who won the Democratic nomination, the Rockefeller organization stopped placing advertising with the paper, Whitehead said.

"I feel rather good that I'm that much of a needle in their side," Whitehead said.

He said the only reason he could think of for the decision to place no advertising with him was an attempt to intimidate him to change his editorial policy.

"We play it straight in the news columns, but the editorial

No Politics in Welfare Raise—WR

MONTICELLO, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller denied Wednesday that a recent $6-a-month raise granted to welfare recipients was politically motivated.

Speaking to a crowd of about 700 at the opening of his regional campaign headquarters at Monticello, Rockefeller said: "We could have waited until November (to announce the raises) but how many of you would have asked me to wait ... when the money was available?"

Rockefeller said he had "cleaned out" the scandals of the administration of former Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

"I don't believe there is a one here tonight who wants to see those scandals come back."

Singleton Quits Board; Young Named

The City Board of Directors Tuesday night appointed Floyd Young, Jr. to serve the unexpired term as city director of Forrest Singleton, who had to resign because of regulations of the J. C. Penney Co. whom he represents as local store manager.

Mr. Young is presently the guidance counselor at Hope High School and has been on the faculty of the Hope School system for the past five years. Mr. Young has a BS degree in Mathematics from AM&N at Pine Bluff and did graduate work in Mathematics at Texas Southern University, Houston. He later received a Masters Degree in counseling from Henderson State College at Arkadelphia.

He has served the city in other capacities, serving with the Citizens Advisory Committee on housing and for the past year and half as a member of the Hope Planning & Zoning Commission. He will be the first Negro ever to serve Hope as a city official. The term to which he was appointed expires Dec. 31, 1972. Mr. Singleton had served 1½ years of the 4-year term to which he was elected. Mr. Young is married to Arlene McFadden and they have two sons: Anthony, 3, and Darryl, 1 year old.

In other action, the board agreed to permit Mrs. Willie Stuart and her associates to use the community building at city park for a kindergarten to be operated from 9 a.m. to 12 noon during the coming school year. The kindergarten operation will pay for cost of utilities used in the building and will be responsible for maintenance of

No Change in City Manager

An erroneous report circulated in the Arkansas Gazette edition reaching this area this morning that one Robert L. Herchert who has been acting city manager at Fairborn, Ohio, had been named city manager of Hope, was quickly denied by local offices this morning.

Denials came from Mayor Frank Douglas and City Manager G. G. Medders. The Star called the Gazette's error to the attention of the Associated Press, which, however, had rejected the original faulty story. Apparently there was a mixup in the Gazette office about what city post the Ohio man had been hired for.

all the equipment used by the day school.

The board also approved a petition from a majority of the property owners on Oak St. to blacktop this street from N. Hazel to N. Laurel St., with property owners paying 75¢ per front foot toward the cost of the paving. The action was to create an improvement district which will require a public hearing before the work can finally proceed.

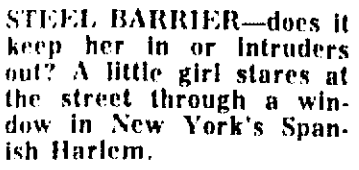

Jim Cobb, fire chief, appeared before the board for a general discussion of the operation of the fire department. After reviewing the operation of the department, the board unanimously commended the entire department for their fine record in fire fighting and maintenance of the fire department's equipment.

A request from Jesse Brown, who operates the local taxicab service, for an additional parking location on Main Street was tabled. The board felt that the parking arrangement for granting the taxicab service use of an additional place at any unoccupied metered location should meet the needs of the local taxicab operation and provide good service to the public.

The directors reviewed the exchange of correspondence between the Arkansas Pollution Control Commission about the burning of paper and other combustibles at the dump ground. The Pollution Control Commission has requested that "I have never played contract," said the old man, "but if you need a player until your partner arrives, I will do my best. Just let me sit South."

The president of the club, whose partner had been delayed, sat North while the best pair in the club picked up the East and West cards.

"They give a bonus for adding a game, don't they?" asked the old man. "I'll bid four hearts."

North raised to six. Expert West was tempted to double but restrained himself. He opened the king of diamonds. The old man ruffed, spread his hand and said, "Six bid and made."

There was a howl from East and West. The director was called and the old man explained "I'll start by drawing trumps." That took our leads and the ace of clubs was discarded from dummy. Next came the leads of the king and queen of clubs, in order to get rid of dummy's ace and king of spades.

"All I will lose is a spade rick. Right?" he asked.

Just then the president's partner arrived. He looked at the stranger quizzically. "Don't I know you?" he asked.

"Of course you do. I'm Z. I used to sit South in all the bridge articles in the days of auction. Many's the time you were my partner under the name of Y. How we used to clobber poor A and B. Just as North and South tend to clobber East and West since taking over our positions at the table. I have never earned contract but I guess I can still handle dummy play."

Z certainly could and still can just try to make the contract without doing some whitewashing of dummy's high cards.
